

CLOSING OF THE MISSION.

Father Shyne's Course Ends Sunday Morning.

LAST SERVICE AT 10 O'CLOCK.

Week's Mission Begins at Battle Creek on Sunday Night and the Next Week Will be a Similar Series at Tilden—Great Crowds.

[From Saturday's Daily.] The Catholic mission which has been held for a week in Norfolk under the care of Rev. Father Shyne of St. Louis University, closed Sunday morning. A mammoth audience was present. Last night Father Shyne began a mission at Battle Creek, reports of which will be published in The News from day to day. One of the most powerful lectures was on the night before the close.

When is a Man Judged?

Before dead? No. After death? No. When? In the very instant of death—there in the very room where he dies. The memory and conscience are illumined and before that soul that has just left the body there stands out as in a scroll the thoughts, the words, the deeds of a lifetime. That soul must account for the evil done or permitted to be done, the good omitted, the good badly done, the deeds of omission as well as commission.

She must stand there before a judge who knows all things and whom none can resist and she must tell why sentence of condemnation should not be pronounced against her. Justice will then reign, for the hour of mercy has passed. The sentence will be pronounced immediately and heaven or hell forever or purgatory for a time will be the end.

The sentence will be irrevocable and on the last day, before the whole world it will be ratified. The soul must depart from God if she has not on the wedding garment and then her sorrow begins: She sees God and quakes and trembles. She sees the world and cannot return to it. She sees heaven and cannot possess it. She yearns to run away and is unable, she acknowledges that she has lost God through her own fault.

Shame, the punishment proper to man, settles on the condemned. The Lord shall bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and the man who walked the streets with his head high and his purse full of ill gotten wealth, and the scientific murderer, and the young man who was the advance agent of the devil, and the young girl who made traffic of her charms and was a decoy of hell and the headless crowd who have no principles higher than their feelings shall then be clothed with confusion and shall see their folly, and Norfolk shall see them, their friends and enemies shall see them, the whole world shall see them, for "the hidden things of darkness shall be brought to light." Here Father Shyne took up the commandments of God and showed how each is to be judged by them.

ENGLISH WILL MEET SULLIVAN.

Sioux City Man Promptly Accepts Challenge for Fifteen Rounds in Norfolk.

The challenge issued a few days ago through these columns by Tommy Sullivan for a match of fifteen rounds against Clarence English, the Sioux City fighter, is accepted in the following letter, which explains itself:

Sioux City, Nov. 5.—Sporting Editor News: I see by your paper that Tommy Sullivan, the lightweight champion of the northwest, is in your town. He was here a week or so ago and we were matched for $500 a side but failed to get together. I wish you would state in your paper that if he really means business I will fight him in Norfolk or any place else, just so we can get this side bet settled. I would like to meet him on or about the 10th of this month. I wish you would also state that Lex Clayton will meet any local wrestler in a catch-as-catch-can match for any part of $500 and percentage of the gate receipts. Clarence English.

Wisner News Notes.

Wisner, Neb., Nov. 10.—The Menomites have been holding a conference at their church about two miles south of Wisner. The conference lasted four days and was largely attended by the adherents of that faith.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. McNish returned Wednesday from their wedding tour in the east, and will be at home to their friends after November 10.

The young men of Wisner who are attending the university at Lincoln, Charles Rolofson, John Hoff, Irving Leisy, Ralph Mansfield and Eric Sleke, came down Saturday to remain until after election.

Rev. A. W. Ayers and Mrs. Ayers are visiting friends in Wisner before leaving for Onega, Kansas, where Mr. Ayers has a charge.

An interesting reunion was held Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Armstrong. Several years ago, a crowd of young people in the high school organized a club called the Woodpecker Family. Mr. Symington, of Los Angeles, who was a charter member, entertained the members at a 5 o'clock dinner, and later by games and dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Heemer of Lyon, have been visiting their son, O. D. Heemer.

Miss Myrtle Hughes spent Saturday and Sunday in Arlington and Fremont.

Mrs. William Crosby of Beemer spent Sunday with her relatives near Wisner.

The family of W. H. Blakeman enjoyed a visit Sunday from an old-time friend, Dr. A. N. Sheffner of Hay Springs.

Mrs. Henry Haase was called to the home of her father in Wisconsin by a telegram announcing his critical illness. She left at noon today. Her father is not expected to live.

Miss Chapman and Miss Aurtz who live near Madison, visited a couple of days at the home of Mrs. Pilger and left this morning for Wayne where they will attend the normal school.

Miss Clara Anderson, who has been taking a course at stenography and type-writing in the Norfolk business college, completed the work Saturday and left for her home Sunday. She was given a farewell surprise by about thirty of the students and the evening was spent enjoyably. Refreshments were served during the evening.

COLORED BOOTBLACK THERE.

[From Monday's Daily.] Like the cackling of geese which at one time saved ancient Rome from the clutches of the enemy, so the squawking of a helpless hen which was being forcibly kidnapped from her home in the roost of a barn which belongs to Mr. Neiland on North Fifth street, saved herself from being stolen and gave a clue to the police as to the whereabouts of about a score of other chickens that have mysteriously disappeared during the past few weeks.

Harry Davis, a little colored bootblack, was seen near the barn very shortly after the hen had given the alarm, but as Harry took no bird he was not arrested this morning. Harry was in jail about a week ago because he tore down fences on Halloween.

No less than a score of the choicest fowls in this particular roost have been stolen during the past few weeks and Mr. Neiland has been busy keeping an eye out for the nocturnal visitor.

This morning, however, Harry was a daylight guest at the barn and when the chicken had squawked his dark little face and big white eyes were clearly visible to the naked eye of Mr. Neiland. He informed the police but they were unable to arrest because no evidence of the crime itself was at hand.

ATCHISON GLOGE SIGHTS.

Every widow exaggerates her money.

Distrust of others usually originates in distrust of self.

We seem to have elected to the United States senate a lot of old men, childish enough to fall in love.

If we had all married our first loves, the only difference is that we would have been grandparents sooner.

A rabbit living near town, awoke on the ground. "Well," he said, "I must be moving. This is my busy day."

It is getting so that people are having some respect for the devil because he doesn't claim to be an Elijah.

Notice is served on a certain man that that peculiar look in his wife's eye when she smiles so sweetly at him, means revenge.

They are playing progressive card games, giving progressive lunches, progressive buggy rides, etc. Therefore, there will be no surprise at learning that the game of progressive husbands is to be played in Atchison shortly.

CHEAP POWER PROBLEM.

Lynch Has Solved It With an Artesian Well.

OTHERS WILL TRY IT, NO DOUBT

Many Wells Will be Established in North Nebraska if the One at Lynch Proves Practicable—Difficulty With the Streams of the State.

[From Monday's Daily.] Power for a mill and electric lighting plant has been obtained at Lynch by sinking an artesian well to a depth of 920 feet. Tests made at the time the gusher was struck indicated a forty horse power pressure, and there is a possibility of developing a still higher power later on. There are wide possibilities in the development of power in the northwest by means of artesian wells, and if there can be a reasonable certainty of striking a strong gusher at a depth of no more than a thousand feet there will doubtless be many of them scattered throughout northwest Nebraska in the course of a few years.

It is peculiarly difficult to make practical use of the water power from the streams in Nebraska. The difficulty is largely due to soil conditions. Few streams in the state have sand or rock bottoms, the soil is too deep for that. This makes it hard to get a good foundation for a dam, and the result is that every season of high water in the state brings in its train the destruction of a dozen or more dams. Then too, streams are charged with silt from their beds and from the fields, and this settles above the dams, sometimes filling up the streams above the dam and entirely cutting off the wheel from its water supply. Owing to these difficulties comparatively few of the streams are used to any great sources of power, and many mills that have at first obtained their power from dams, have put in engines and turned to steam power as more reliable and not much more expensive, cost of keeping up dams considered.

Nevertheless it is trying to an economical man to see good water power go to waste while the price of coal goes higher and higher. At Rushville they are considering a plan to harness Pine creek so as to make it furnish power to run a mill and to light the town. It is estimated that one year of this would effect a saving that would pay first cost of dam and plant, and after that the town would have plenty of power at an insignificant cost. There is talk of forming a company of business men for furthering the project. —Lincoln Journal.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by Klesau Drug Co.
